SERVUS Symposium - 8 May
This symposium is the 15th in an annual symposium series, a meeting place for students and professionals to strengthen the link between theory and business practice. This event explores the power of societal engagement; how can leaders create an organization in service of the employees, customers and society at large?

Servant-leaders help create a corporate social responsible culture where employees perceive their work as meaningful. Societal consciousness is more and more important nowadays and is given focus not only by universities but by companies as well. Increasingly, companies plan to align with The United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Some major SDG steps are taken by business leaders working towards a sustainable future. Corporate engagement to humanize underserved groups will not only bring social justice in society, it will also improve the internal working

Technology & Innovation Community Meeting - 10 May
We are happy to announce that our fourth Technology and Innovation Community meeting will take place on Wednesday, May 10, 13:00-17:00. The Technology and Innovation Community brings together scholars from different universities in the Netherlands and Belgium (and potentially beyond) who share an interest in theory-informed technology and innovation research. This time the meeting will be hosted by the Institute for Management Research at Radboud University. For more information please click here.

NEWS

ABRI PhD Summer School in Management Studies 2017 open for registration
ABRI is delighted to announce the ABRI PhD Summer School in Management Studies 2017, which will take place on June 19-21. This year’s theme is: Approaches for studying collaboration across boundaries and the pursuit of common good.

All PhD students (from any institution) with a background in management studies are welcome to apply.

The Summer School aims to help PhD candidates and young researchers to understand the complex theoretical field related to collaboration and provides a broad theoretical and methodological toolkit for participants to use in designing and executing their empirical studies.

In doing so, the Summer School aims to help participants to attain a better view on how their research can contribute to current literatures. In addition to expanding our theoretical and methodological toolkits, the studies that we will discuss have important implications for various individuals, groups, organizations, and communities in the broader society.

Faculty: Bernard Leca (ESSEC), Frank den Hond (Hanken), Riku Ruotsalainen (VU), Brian Tjemkes (VU) and Jingshu Du (VU)

Study period: June 19-21
ECTS: 3
Location: Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, for more details, see the syllabus
Application: The application deadline is May 15, 2017.
