Junior Researcher Graduation: ‘rite of passage’ from student to PhD candidate…
Six Junior Researchers (Sanne van Duin, Susanne Preuss, Gerben de Jong, Mark Kokkelink, Etienne Schraven and Judith Plomp) received their JR diploma last Friday. Four of them went through the ‘ordeal’ of presenting their work before a panel that could ask them questions and make suggestions to improve their first paper. During the JR trajectory that started last October, they delivered this paper and a research proposal, and they successfully completed several courses within and outside ABRI covering for at least 30 ECTs. Many of them also had teaching obligations for their specific research departments. Thanks for the panel members Philipp Tuertscher, Juan Pablo Mendoza, Alex Alexiev, and Liselore Havermans, and congratulations to all Junior Researchers, and a good bye to Mark who decided not to continue in academia and Nikki van Dam who went to work for Deloitte earlier in the year. The five graduates Sanne, Susanne, Gerben, Etienne, and Judith will continue as a PhD at ABRI-FEWEB!

ABRI Barbecue great closure of a very successful year!
As a closure of this great and very successful academic year, on Tuesday, June 16, ABRI office and the PhD Council organized the annual barbecue for the whole ABRI research community (and beyond), which took place after the last ABRI Research Seminar of this academic year.

The barbecue was a nice occasion for everyone to reflect on all the great projects, publications, new educational programmes and other successes that have been achieved this year, as well as to hear about everyone's fresh and exciting plans for the next academic year!
