Fons Trompenaars no. 33 of top 50 management thinkers worldwide
Thinkers50, the premier ranking of global business thinkers, has announced its 2015 list and Fons Trompenaars, co-author with Charles Hampden-Turner of recently published Nine Visions of Capitalism, has climbed to 33rd place.

The Thinkers50 ranking, often described as the Oscars of management thinking, is a “celebration of the very best new management thinking as well as those ideas which stand the test of time,” according to Des Dearlove, who created Thinkers50 with Stuart Crainer in 2001. “We are looking for ideas with a potential impact that extends beyond the business world to address issues ranging from reducing poverty to building a sustainable model of capitalism.” Infinite Ideas author, Fons Trompenaars, a permanent fixture in the prestigious global ranking since its inception in 2001, said “It’s an enormous honour to be included in the Thinkers50 and to have climbed the ranking since 2013 means a great deal to me and my team. Thinkers50 makes a real difference in the world of consulting. And as a partner of KPMG I am expecting that business thinkers will increasingly digitize their ideas as games, apps and e-learning and we will be at the forefront of that movement. It will be interesting to see what impact digitization has on Thinkers50 2017.”

Rebecca Clare, Infinite Ideas’ Editorial Director said: “We are proud to be the publisher of one of the top 50 business thinkers in the world. We have published Fons Trompenaars since the start of the business 12 years ago and it is particularly gratifying to see that his important work on dilemma reconciliation continues to be recognized by a global audience.” John Naisbitt, author of Megatrends, described Nine Visions of Capitalism as “an important and brilliant book. With deep insights on China, it helps us understand a world undergoing extraordinary change.”

About Thinkers50
Thinkers50 scans, ranks and shares the very best in management ideas. Its definitive global ranking of management thinkers is published every two years.

Ad van Goor wins Personal Logistics Award
For his outstanding achievements regarding awareness for logistics and progress in Netherlands, Ad van Goor has won the Personal Logistics Award. The main contribution of van Goor is the introduction of a new concept for logistical problems that is called the PBIO-model. “In the last 25 years this concept has found its way into thousands of papers and advisory reports” In 1992, Van Goor became the first professor of Logistics and Supply Chain Management of Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam. He retired in 2011. At VU he laid the foundation for the successful master course “Transport and Supply Chain Management”. He was inspired by the question: “How can logistics add value to chain cooperations?” According to the jury, he has always been action-oriented, with great affinity for the workplace. Sharing knowledge with young professionals has always been important for Van Goor: over more than fifteen years he was engaged in various programs, such as Manager of Integrated Supply Chain Management and the European Master Logistician.
